Every successful business creates systems that help them repeat winning formulas

Systems help you to achieve better results, more consistently, at a lower cost. Systems allow you to 'lock in' best practice, delight customers and distinguish yourself from competitors.

What is a system?

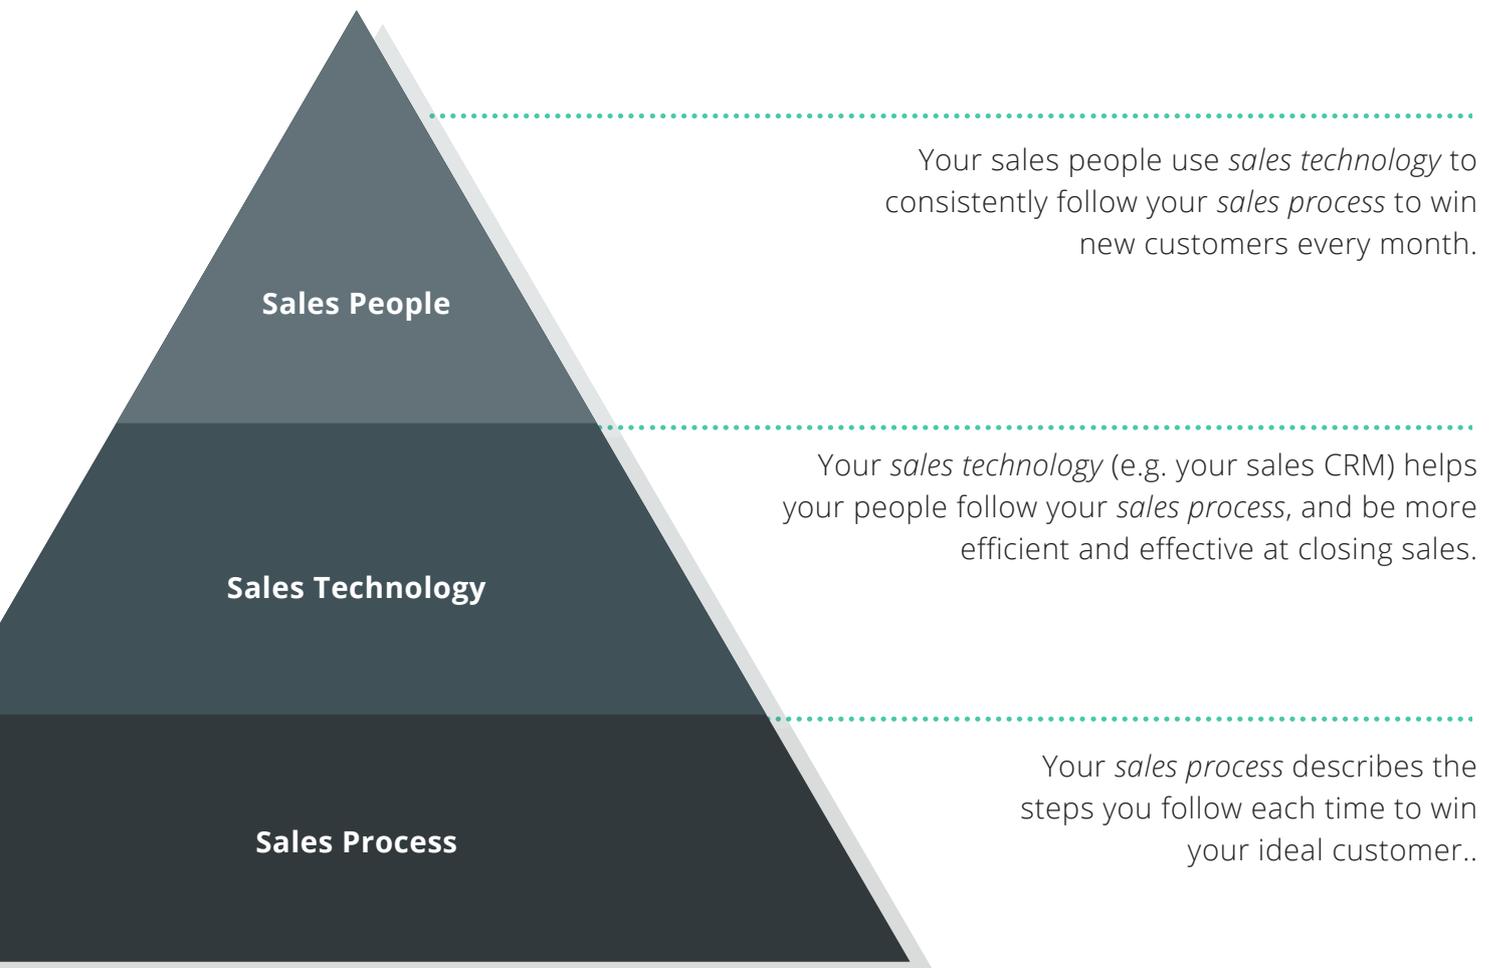

A system is an organized collection of parts that work toward a common goal. A business system is typically made up of three parts:

There are two systems that are critical to survival and growth. Your Sales System and your Accounts Receivable System.

Your Sales System

A successful Sales System helps you repeat a sales process that consistently wins ideal customers and achieves your revenue targets. Without consistent sales, your business will fail.

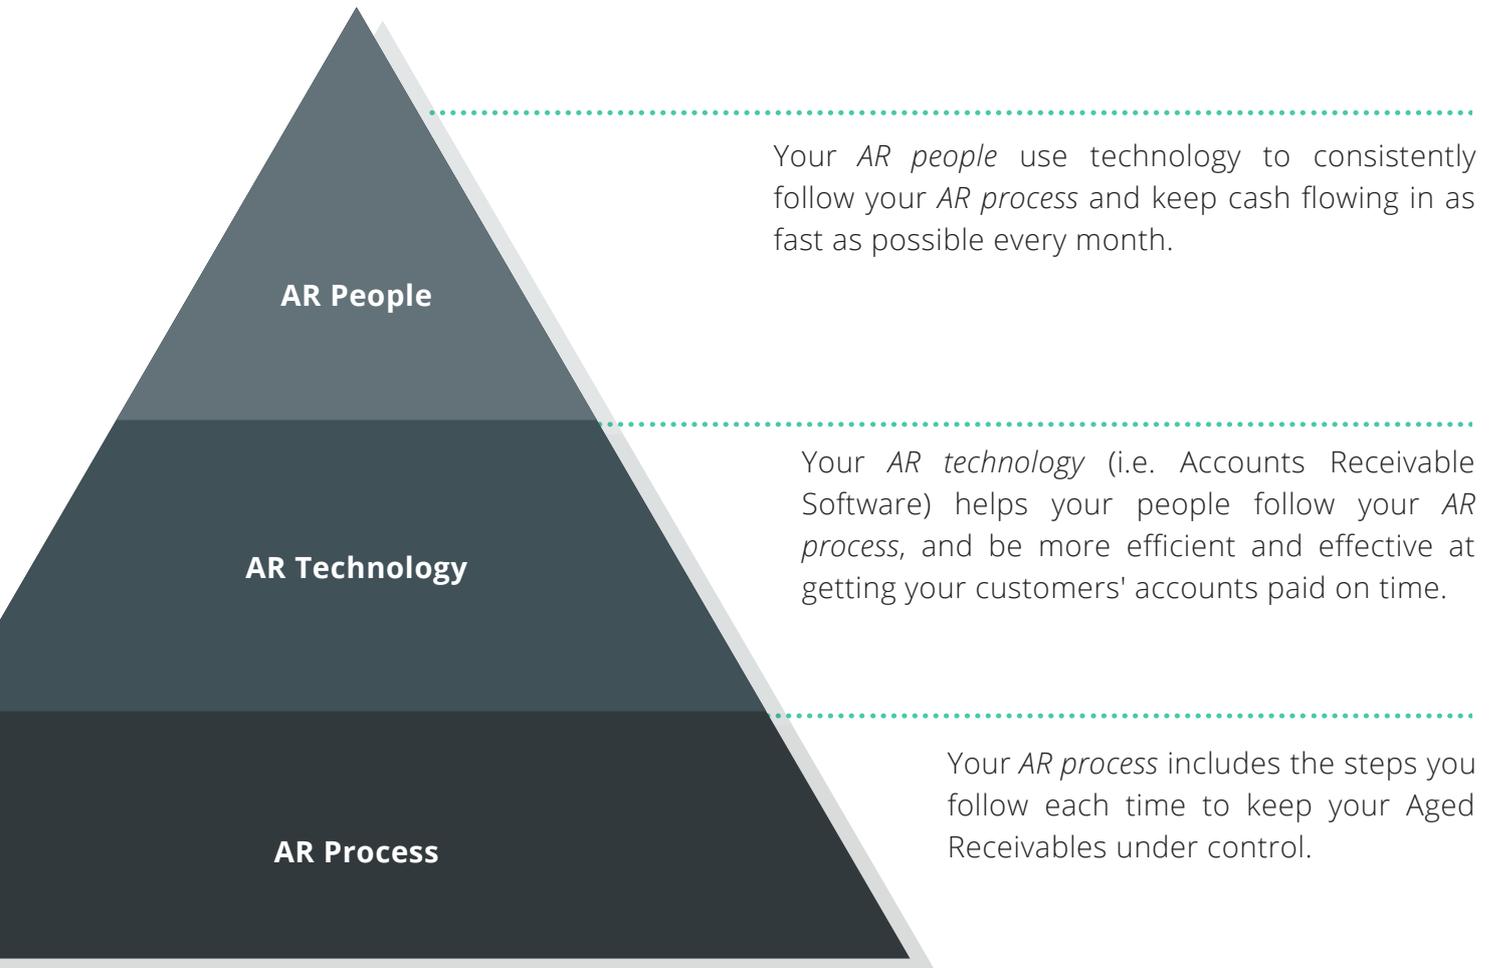

How to tell if you Sales System is performing:

- ✔ Wins ideal customers
- ✔ The agreed process is followed
- ✔ Sales targets are met / exceeded
- ✔ The cost of sale is acceptable
- ✔ Repetitive tasks are automated
- ✔ Sales people are productive
- ✔ Sales people are motivated
- ✔ Effectiveness improves over time

Your Accounts Receivable System

A successful Accounts Receivable (AR) System helps you repeat an AR process that consistently keeps cash flowing, whilst keeping customers happy. Without consistent cashflow, a business will fail.

How to tell if you AR System is performing:

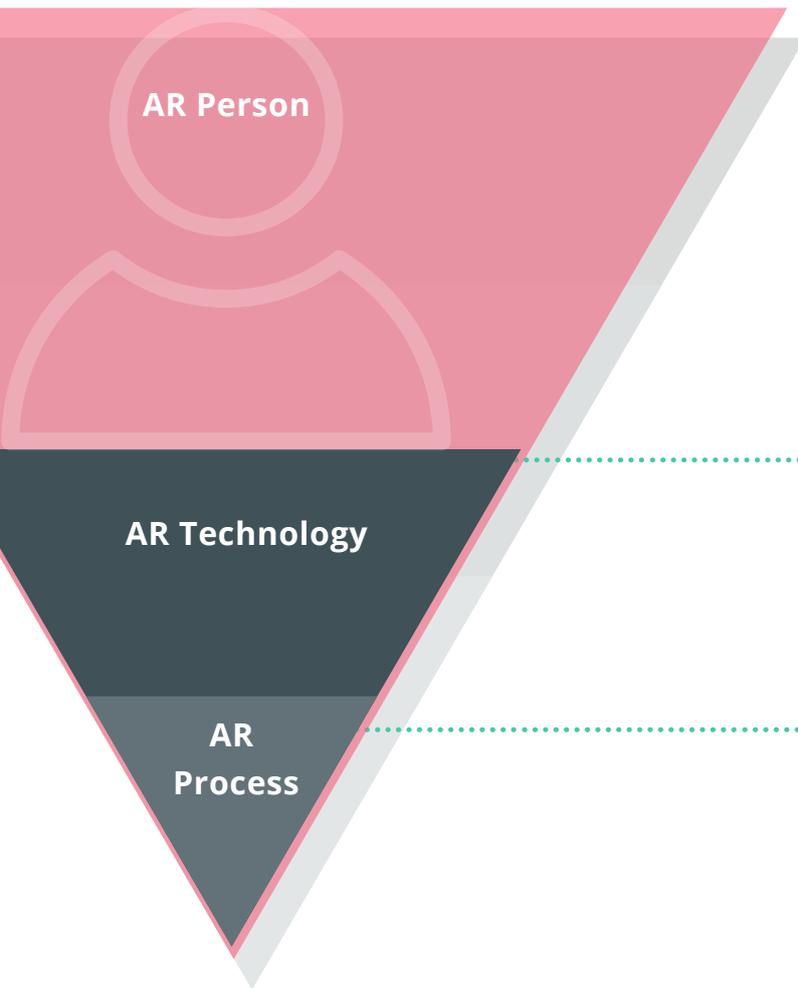

- ✓ The agreed AR process is followed
- ✓ Resolves queries / disputes promptly
- ✓ Overdue (DSO) targets are met
- ✓ Cashflow objectives are met
- ✓ Repetitive tasks are automated
- ✓ AR people are productive
- ✓ AR people are motivated
- ✓ Bad debts are minimized

Why is it so hard to keep
AR solved?

Is your AR System actually a person?

In most businesses, the AR System relies too much on a person who lacks the time, desire and/or technology to succeed. This makes it virtually impossible to achieve consistent cashflow and keep overdue accounts under control.

Is your AR Person set up to succeed? Do they have the time, desire and technology to do a consistently great job every month? What other tasks are taking priority or getting in the way?

Are you maximising the use of AR Software to increase efficiency and effectiveness at each stage in your AR Process? Or are you relying on manual systems such as spreadsheets / emails.

Do you have a clearly defined AR Process so everyone understands what should happen when? Is the process followed consistently every month?

Due to a lack of process, technology or a dedicated person, AR remains an unresolved issue, resulting in unpredictable cashflow, stressed employees, disgruntled customers and needless write-offs.

AR is a job, not an 'extra task'

The key to long term success in AR is having a dedicated person in the role. Unfortunately the job often falls to an existing employee as an 'extra task'. This is the primary reason AR remains a nagging and unresolved issue in many businesses.

Office Manager / Finance Manager

Most often it is office/finance manager that is asked to shoulder the burden of AR, on top of everything else on their list.

Pros

- Good people skills.
- Know the customer history.
- Able to resolve issues quickly.

Cons

- Overworked. Too much on their plate.
- High opportunity and switching costs.
- Hard to maintain a consistent approach.

Sales Person / Account Manager

Frequently sales people and account managers end up with AR on their plate. The logic being, they have rapport and know the customer history – hence they're the best person for the job.

Pros

- Strong people skills.
- Good rapport / relationship.
- Knows the customer history.

Cons

- Playing good cop / bad cop creates tension
- Opportunity cost. They should be selling.
- Hard to hold them accountable.

Office Administrator

Office juniors and receptionists often end up with the jobs that no one else wants, like AR. A lot of the time they lack the training, skills and tools to do a great job.

Pros

- Okay people skills.
- Knows the business.
- Lower hourly rate.

Cons

- Inefficient, favouring manual processes.
- Requires more oversight / management.
- Higher staff turnover in these roles.

It's hard to hold someone accountable to AR
when it's not really their job.

The new way to solve AR.

The decision to give [Debtor Daddy] a go has been a greater return on investment than we could have ever expected.

The new way to solve AR

Debtor Daddy is the on-demand, scalable Accounts Receivable solution for growing businesses everywhere. Our purpose-built AR Software and dedicated AR Specialists will help you keep AR solved, for good.

LEVEL 1

AR SOFTWARE

Use our software to save time and automate your AR process. We're just a click away if you need assistance with set up, configuration, debt collection or even the odd phone call every now and then when you're too busy or on holiday.

AR ASSISTANT

You remain in the driver's seat. Your AR Specialist assists you each week or month with calls you don't have time for (or would rather not do). You might choose to focus on larger accounts while your specialist focuses on smaller accounts – there's plenty of ways to divide and conquer your aged receivables!

AR DEPARTMENT

Your Debtor Daddy AR Specialist takes care of everything AR-related (excluding bank reconciliation and invoicing) so you can get back to the other tasks on your list. Use our online AR Software to stay in the loop every week.

Benefits of hiring an AR Specialist:

- ✔ Cheaper than hiring a part-timer
- ✔ Experienced, professional & tech-savvy
- ✔ Focused solely on keeping AR under control
- ✔ Highly trained, receives regular coaching
- ✔ Always on, no sick days or sick leave to pay
- ✔ Works remotely, as one of your team

Our clients say...

"Reminder calls and emails happen automatically every month like clockwork. We get paid faster, our customers are happy, and I can spend my time on other things."

Chantel Peacock, Office Manager / Director – SolarQuotes

"Debtor Daddy has systemised AR in a very professional way. It is more effective than our own efforts and costs less."

Warwick Schaffer, CEO – Circle Software

"Debtor Daddy keeps payments top-of-mind for our clients. It's their entire focus and they have a process that is followed through with consistency and diligence."

Liz Eveleigh, Practice Manager – Kendons Accountants

"We've saved 8-10 hours a month, but more than that though it's efficient and consistent being focused solely on getting paid."

Marcus Robbie, Owner – KiwiCloudIT
